Idle Thoughts of a Busy Woman.

A unique institution, and one whose plan would be well calculated to raise the hair of the heads of many narrow-minded and puritanical people, is the Jersey City Tabernacle, which combines under its liberal and kindly roof a church, gymnasium for young men and women, a hall that can be used for bicycle riding, concerts and private theatricals, a bowling alley and billiard room and a kindergarten and nursery with a nice playground outside and a big lunch counter whereat is sold soda water, pie and milk. The story of the establishment and success of this tabernacle is as wonderful and interesting in its way as that of Walter Besant's people's palace in London. The tabernacle proper is a Congregationalist church, and when it was built in 1882 it was in the fashionable part of the city, but the wealth of the city, having moved to the heights, the tabernacle now stands in the midst of factories and tenements, and its congregation is composed of the laboring classes. The idea of making the place a resort for pleasure, as well as prayer, occurred to its young pastor, Rev. John L. Scudder. Mr. Scudder is a Yale graduate, and he played first base on the Yale nine. He was also an enthusiastic devotee of boxing and boxing, and in fact, of all-round athletic sports.

The athletic additions to the church part of the tabernacle grew out of his sympathy with the idea of cleanliness next to godliness and that good health and a light heart were very strong factors in assisting the morality of humanity. There is a splendid bathing and swimming pool in the gymnasium, and the girls, children and young men all have their hours for enjoying it. The pool is heated in winter and forms throughout the year one of the greatest pleasures of the place. After the gymnasium was established, Mr. Scudder then thought him of the billiard room and bowling alley. Some of his elders remonstrated, but he overruled their objections with the promise that in a month's time he could not prove to them that he had pulled a number of young men away from the barrooms he would give up the experiment. He did prove his proposition in a short while, for it was soon seen that the attendance of young men increased tenfold. Of course, no gambling is allowed and the games are paid for in the tabernacle. In order to do away with the gambling feature of sticking the loser for the game. Another popular feature of our social life," Mr. Scudder said, "is that no man or woman is allowed to talk religion in the playhouse. Thus a newcomer who might have no religion is not frightened away. If people behave, that is all we require, but most of all of them come to church in the end."

The general plans of this far-seeing and sympathetic Christian man can best be explained in his own words to a reporter in one of the great northern dailies. "Our church is for the people and to be used by them all the time," Mr. Scudder explained. "We charge them $2 a year for the privileges enjoyed in the athletic department, and the girls, children and young men are just one-half those of the church in hand. All the games in the amusement department are charged for, but the price is so low that the poorest of the community can enjoy them. Such freedom, such a hearty welcome, and such good cheer in the saloon? Not in him to go to the prayer meeting. Let me exclaim, I am free to confess that many of our country, as now conducted in this country, is in far from a happy place of mental or spiritual exhilaration, and is characterized by its sociability. We are told to serve the Lord with gladness, and I propose to get all the fun out of this world that I can, and have my fun in the same if they will. Of course, in starting this work we naturally antagonized two classes of people, the fanatics and the conservatives. By fanatics I mean those who are so exclusively spiritual that they are one-sided, those who instantly bristle up and become excited and wild-eyed when a sensible man talks of providing amusements under the auspices of the church.

"In establishing such a broad and comprehensive work, involving many innovations, some of them, such as bowling alleys and billiard tables, of a somewhat startling character, I naturally met with opposition from the fanatics and the conservatives, who, while denouncing vigorously, were not willing to discuss. Their only argument was to stigmatize wildly, grow red in the face, and shout that they never did this! I told them our fathers burned witches and cowards men even if they did not go to church. Why, when Henry Ward Beecher put his hand into his church there was a howl of protest all over the country; but who today builds a church without a commodious kitchen and facilities for feeding the faithful? If such a venerable and goodly institution as Amherst college feels the necessity of putting in her amusement department, billiard tables for the purpose of keeping students at home, why should not the churches do the same?

"There was one form of our athletic training that threatened to do us harm at first, and that was bicycle riding. When the fine summer Sundays and good roads come, our men, instead of coming to church, would skip away out of town on their wheels. I met that difficulty in a sermon.

Part of that sermon was as follows: "I am happy to announce that in the tabernacle arrangements have been made to check the wheels of all those who make the bicycle a church-going machine. Our people's palace is not only a place of prayer, but it is a place of recreation. It is open on Sundays to receive the wheels of those who come to church. While we do not encourage Sunday riding, we certainly invite those who use wheels on Sunday to ride this way and enjoy the service of this sanctuary. The tabernacle takes a special interest in wheelmen. I suppose the reason is that we have so many wheelmen and wheelwomen of our own—over 150, I believe at present.

"The bicycle is a thoroughly Christian machine, for it improves the temper, discourages dissipation, makes a man look on the bright side of things, and puts vivacity into his religion. When I feel stupid or cross or blue, I get on my twenty-five minutes and take a lively spin. In ten minutes the world looks different. I begin to feel like an angel—as if I had wings. I know from experience that a minister can preach better on Sunday if he rides a bicycle on Saturday."

Mr. Scudder said in conclusion: "It is better to be an invalid with Christ than a Hercules without Him; best of all, however, it is to be a truly Christian Hercules, a fully rounded and perfected man. To make men such is the end and aim of our work, and in making them such we are making them happy as well as holy."

The entire idea of this great scheme for ennobling and strengthening the minds and bodies of such young people is one that must form food for reflection to the broad and liberal human intelligence of this era. We must grow in religious methods as we do in science and art and other branches of learning. Many of the old terrifying methods of bringing sinners to the Lord remind me of the horrors of surgery before the discovery of anaesthesia, where the poor victim was tied and stuffed in order to have his leg cut off. It was a terrible idea, this making of religion so hard and fearsome a thing, and it was hard, too, for a well-fed and comfortable preacher to get up and talk to a lot of ill-fed, forlorn-looking people of the glories of a heaven that had for them no suggestion on this earth. It is so easy for fortunate folks to go to good and so hard for the heavy-hearted and weary-handed man to find comfort and good cheer through inner spiritual light alone. I wish some preacher, kind enough and generous and broad enough, some preacher who had made plenty of money scaring his hearers out of hell, would take this little Sunday sermon to his heart, where it is meant to go, and establish such a tabernacle in the laboring districts here. I'd warrant 'twould repay him more than anything else could in the gold coin of gratitude from countless hearts. The working people here have no amusements. They have churches, a hospital to go to when they are sick, a home for their abandoned, or orphan children, and a number of other charitable or philanthropic institutions of which they can avail themselves in time of need. A building of this kind, embracing so much that goes toward the making of good morals and contentment, would be a great thing here.

Mr. Scudder took charge of the tabernacle eight years ago and today more than four hundred young men and women, almost as many children ranging in age from seven to ten years, and from twenty-five to fifty infants are in attendance at the building nearly every day, besides more than half the grown-up members of the church, who seem to be enjoying the athletic idea as heartily as the young people.

I believe that such a building here would be a great success and a monument to the advanced and beautiful thought of making a good life in very truth "the most beautiful thing in the world."

This subject brings me to a theme even nearer my heart and that is the woman's building, of which I verily believe women especially interested dream of by night and day.

I think of this building continually with such sincere hopes not only for its success and completion as an exposition building for the setting forth of the present day woman's progress and accomplishments, but as a monument of her advancing life for the future.

All sorts of dreams, as yet undefined, arise before me, and although I know we will have plenty of time to think the matter over after the building is erected, I cannot refrain from suggesting some of these ideas. A school of decorative art and design, to be established in the building, a cooking school, a kindergarten, an art gallery and a great many practical apartments for teaching different arts by which young women could fit themselves for practical positions.

The building, outside of its library, its art gallery and any other departments for intellectual or artistic pleasure, should be devoted to specialties of interest and profit to women, each department to be independent of the other and governed by a suitable person. A gymnasium would be an excellent addition. It could be a clubroom, devoted to fencing, bowling and all the athletic sports that women indulge in. The building should have assembly rooms for all the associations and clubs of women desir-often to wonder how things could keep on with such perfect system and comfort. Each warder upon her arrival was registered, and a week from the day she came she found her bill beneath her plate and she had to be paid on the day of its presentation. The pretty parlors were elegant and homelike, and the people who filled them after dinner in the evening were of the very best, for this astute woman would have nothing second rate, human or vegetable.

The rules about the house were as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and who ever transgressed them was guilty, and told that her room was wanted for another lodger. At 11 o'clock the lights were turned down in the drawing room, and everybody was expected to retire, and were told those who did not so do. Of course, Mrs. Pierce had her enemies (Saint Cecilia would have if she kept a boarding house), but even they declare to this day that her house was really a beautiful one of refined and elegant home, a perfect cuisine and charming social life.

I went there again, and the place was just the same, only my sky parlor was exchanged for a big, stately front room, with mirrors and sedate mahogany furniture. This was the matter with the matter is now no more. Mrs. Pierce, soon after my last visit, went to live in luxury with a single brother who made millions out west. She deserved the reward, and the old dame falls to conscientious labor. The house is now occupied by a tawdry set. One sea-dyed yellow heads at the windows and smells of grease and cooking and one named. The old boarding house people have all gone—the stately goddess who wrote all night for a big paper and came in to a late breakfast of bread and milk at 11 o'clock in the morning; the old gentleman, benign and courteous and widowed, whom several elderly ladies wanted to marry; the elegant middle-aged widow who really did long ago when she buried the last of five children; the little blue-eyed Bostonian whom I wanted to kill for saying he wouldn't mind romping with a darky; his blonde-haired stick-witty, but made you think he was from his droll fashion of saying things; the card-playing little old maid, with her claws sticking out now and then beneath that "toady" which often is acquired by single women who board, and last, but not most unique of all, the George DuMaurier man who always appeared in the evening in full dress and an air of importance. He went crazy afterwards. He was an unknown, strange fellow who talked vaguely of dinners and receptions. So strange he was, so out of the world, that they bring to the household, and I believe if we do have such a mansion as we dream of, all we dream about it will be realized in time.

In connection with the much bruited question of co-operative housekeeping, I came across the picture of an interesting acquaintance in a northern paper recently. It was that of Mrs. M. Fay Pierce, of New York, the woman who, twenty-six years ago, wrote a series of brilliant articles on the co-operative system for The Atlantic Monthly. Since then no theory has been advanced that has seemed to me clearer than that of this clever woman, and here it is:

Mrs. Pierce's Theory.
Mrs. Pierce seemed to have as her chief concern the relief of women from cares that are far too heavy in proportion to the comfort that they bring to the household, and at the same time to organize housekeeping into a business, thus enabling women to adopt a modern and useful, and inherited occupation, and hold it as her own.

By Mrs. Pierce's plan, women of executive ability would have scope for their powers in the organization and oversight of the common laundry and kitchen; women with a talent for cookery should learn that art under foreign chefs; those with artistic taste in dress should become the consumers; all to labor not for the world, but for the benefit of the co-operative circle. It was claimed that if each co-operative were to do her share only a few hours daily labor would be required from each.

Mrs. Pierce claimed that her plan would solve the service question, as work could be graded, hours be made regular, the supervision be more impersonal, and that, as all employees would reside in the central building, containing the kitchen, laundry and other offices, the loneliness that attends the present system would be obviated.

It was long after Mrs. Pierce agitated the idea of co-operative housekeeping, however, that I knew her, but, to my mind, she deserves immortality, as much for keeping women's progress and accomplishments, as for her literary brilliancy. It was my good fortune about eight years ago, when just starting out in my work, to make my first visit to New York, and to find in this boarding house beautiful, where everything moved along like clock work, where everything from sky parlor to base-dish, was in a first-class house, where mine was a sky parlor and comfortable room and most conveniently situated as I could, by climbing the ladder outside and taking a few steps on the roof, drop in on my artist chapone next door without treading the many flights of stairs. SARGE PLUNKETT.

The Old Men Meet with a Great Scientific Gentleman.

THE GOOD MAN IS DISFRANCHISED

But the Bad Man's Suffrage Is Secure Under the Operations of the Toombs Bill.

For The Constitution.

A long haired, study-worn, scientific scholar could never have got us to listen to him, had it not been that we are so worn out with politics that we accept anything for a change. Yesterday there came along one of these "scholars," and he had it his own way for about four hours, but when he had gone we had it our way. The fellow was bristling with literature. The pockets of his seedy Prince Albert was strutting with periodicals, and his arms were filled with treatises upon every subject from the little ant to the mighty elephant, from the minnow to the whale, from the sparrow to the great American eagle. The evolution of man—"how to breed men"—is the pressure which bore upon him through the four hours with us, and he is coming back in August to spend a month with us, in order to continue the subject.

Me and my old 'oman are always modest upon subjects we have but little experience in, but Brown and his old 'oman looked like they were on nettles just to get a chance at this what-ever-you-may-call-it scholar. Not a word could they get in, as this fellow went on to convince them that it was just as easy—if they had known how—to have their whole thirteen children as a heroines as to have them in the plain cooks and clothed as they are. At every turn he would flit out a paper to prove what he was saying. The concentration of the mind upon the subject of child one wisied was all parents had to do to all the world with Napoleons, Jennie Lindes, George Washingtons and Edisons. Mrs. Brown shook her head a few times, and Brown winked at me, but the fellow awed them with his papers on the subject, and even opened the lids of our Bible and turned to where Joseph put up the striped poles in the sheep ranch, in proof of his theory. He had his own way for four hours, but when he was gone we had it our way, and all of us voted that Brown's experience was better than book learning in this subject upon—it is all a fallacy, says Brown; it is all a fallacy, says Mrs. Brown. If ever two people did have their hearts set and their minds concentrated on having their boy great, it was this couple—the boy is nothing.

Of course, we could not pass around in Atlanta without listening to something political. When Mr. Toombs pressed his bill into the constitution of the state, forcing the payment of taxes as a right for suffrage, he little dreamed of how many of his own race would be disfranchised by his operations. If the grand old man was living, he would be too honest to deny but that the bill was aimed at the negro. No defense can be made for a man not paying his taxes, but it is a fact that it is growing to such proportions that it should catch the attention of thoughtful men and a remedy should be sought after. It might not be some of our "reasoners" to expatiate the number of men who are disfranchised in Georgia at this time, and the number is still growing. It is not the "bad clement" that is mostly affected by this law. A "bad" man can always manage to get his taxes paid, even if he profits the ballot box by making this tax the price of his vote. Some good men—real good men, but poor—are unable to vote on account of this law, and it is a shame as well as impolitic that it should be so. It was never the intention of Robert Toombs to disfranchise a white Georgian—the negro can take care of himself in this matter.

I have said it before, but it will bear repeating right at this time, that it is the poor white man who needs some of the attention that is keeping "problem solvers" awake at night and a-howling my day. I have never been in sympathy with the "poor man's friend" idea, as used in politics, and have always been suspicious of candidates who use the theme, but I do think that the time has come when the conditions and the future of the poor whites of the south should have attention. The world has been too busy helping the negro to rise for thirty years to give a thought to the poor white man. In his abundance of self-compassion, the poor whites have been blinded to the great strides of the negro, and forgot that wealth has much to do with respectability—that I forgot, I did not think of many things, but I can tell you again, as I have told you before, that "money makes the mare go."

I am well known as being against so much organization, but I have organized a society in our settlement recently that I give my hearty support and sanction to. The object of this new society is to foster and encourage the settlement of our own surplus population upon lands in the country. The main plank in the platform of this society is that the money spent in bringing emigrants from away off shall be spent in unloading the towns of their surplus. I ran for the presidency of this society, but my opponent had such a good record of my past, with evidence to sustain, that I was overwhelmingly defeated. The rascal fooled me into voting against myself. This fellow, in his opening address, said some things that I thought was sensible—if he did beat me, he affirms that "big men" look too far off to find their material for the improvement of the south. Commence right here, and encourage and aid all you can the men who are idle after our own capital and labor has profitable employment, it will be time to reach out—make haste at home. In the course of his remarks, the president exclaimed with a great flourish that "the state of Georgia donates $25,000 a year to her military emigrants—if she would donate this amount to the settlement of the state on Shoal creek, there would soon be some excuse for inviting foreigners to come and labor in our vineyard!" I don't see what the military emigrants have to do with our society, but the crowd went wild with cheers all crowds do when you mention the doing away with this emigration. Some fellow will an office yet on this issue, but it won't be me, for I will never run again. But I am not going to sulk because I got beat for the presidency. The society has some good features. If their president has sense enough to carry them out. Some of their mottoes read:

"Charity Begins at Home."

"Patronize Home Industry."

What I think is the best clause in the society's by-laws reads: "No dues shall be exacted from any member, but if a brother's crop gets in the grass from misfortune, then the president shall work him out."

This clause sounds like old times. It used to be the custom to work a neighbor's crop in cases of misfortune. There was no real poverty among country people of the south in old times. A poor man had no anxiety about losing his crop if he had sickness. It was a frolic for the neighbors to gather at the sick man's house and work his crop over in one day. The sick man was not disturbed in these workings, even to feed the workers—all carried dinner and food, and the day passed in cheer and frolic.

I will mention one more clause of the by-laws, because I think it graphic: "If any man shall mention politics in this society, the doorkeeper shall mash his mouth with a stick." I am mighty fearful there will be some "mouth mashing," for it is most as hard to keep from talking politics as it used to be for a young man to keep from talking weather to his sweetheart. Brown is the president of this society—he is the man who beat me.

The farmer boys are beginning to lay-by corn, and blackberries are ripening. Chickens are ripe for the fries, and peas and "big meeting" season is nearly here. The wheat threshers are in the land, and the crop is better than was expected. Why should we not be cheerful and thankful, if cotton does still remain where it seated itself two months ago?

There's not a wave of trouble rolls my head in my mind.

I fold my hands at lay-by time.

Trust God for the rest;

In everything I feel content—

Being beat as Brown beat me

Is sure to leave a sting.

WARM WEATHER HAS COME.

The Best Season of the Year to Treat Chronic Catarrh.

After unusual delay summer has come at last, and now is the time for all catarrh sufferers to begin a systematic course of treatment for this disease. The greatest difficulty in the way of treating chronic catarrh is that the patient is so liable to catch cold during the treatment, and thus delay a cure. The liability of this season of the year is, in a great measure, removed, and no one should neglect the opportunity to be given.

The proper way to begin treatment for chronic catarrh is to take a tablespoonful of Pe-ru-a before each meal and at bedtime. This dose should be increased so that in one month the patient will be taking two tablespoonfuls at each dose. If not entirely well by this time write Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O. Answer free.

Every patient should have a copy of the Family Physician, which is a 32-page pamphlet, giving a complete description of the cause, symptoms and cure of chronic catarrh. Sent free to any address.

Georgia Teachers' Association.

The greatest gathering of teachers ever held in the south will take place on Cumberland Island on the occasion of the Georgia Teachers' Association, July 1st to 7th. The new teachers' home is nearly completed and this immense auditorium will accommodate two thousand people, will be filled with the representative instructors of Georgia.

The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia will sell tickets at low rates, and will run through vestibule trains to Brunswick, making close connections with the boats for Florida. Parties contemplating the trip should correspond with J. Kirby, city ticket agent, Atlanta, and full information will be furnished.

Alaska Refrigerators

Are the Best in the World!

This claim is fully substantiated wherever an "Alaska" is used.

"THE REASON WHY."

The principal causes of decay in meats and fruits are DAMPNESS and VARYING TEMPERATURE. The qualities sought for in a Refrigerator are PRESERVATION OF PERISHABLE FOOD and an economical use of ice. The "Alaska" is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which LOW TEMPERATURE and ABSOLUTE DRYNESS OF AIR are naturally and inevitably obtained. The "Alaska" possesses a provision chamber FREE FROM ODOR AND FROM DAMPNESS. These results can be obtained only by a PERFECT CIRCULATION of the Air in the Refrigerator, and its CONDENSATION IN THE ICE CHAMBER. The "Alaska" keeps the air in contact with the ice longer than any other Refrigerator, condenses all the moisture before the air returns to the provision chamber, and, in utilizing all the cold air, PRODUCES BETTER RESULTS WITH LESS ICE than any other make.

The "Alaska" is a perfect DRY-AIR REFRIGERATOR, and the best one ever constructed. Sold only by THE STATE ROAD.

Colonel W. A. Little Files an Important Report with the Governor.

DEPORT CONTROVERSY IN CHATTANOOGA

About the Georgia Pacific Right of Way and Other Atlanta Matters—Mr. Veach's Claim at Adairville.

Colonel W. A. Little has filed with the governor a report of certain work as special attorney in Western and Atlantic matters, and that report gives some interesting facts about the state of certain investigations and litigation.

The letter to the governor contains much that will interest the people of the state, and is given here in full:

Colonel Little's Letter.

Columbus, Ga., June 11, 1894.—Hon. W. A. Little, Governor, Atlanta, Ga.—Sir: In accordance with your instructions, I have the honor to submit to you the following report of certain work as special attorney in Western and Atlantic matters, and that report gives some interesting facts about the state of certain investigations and litigation.

The letter to the governor contains much that will interest the people of the state, and is given here in full:

Atlanta Matters.

"I have been able to make some progress in the matters referred to me by your excellency for adjudication under the resolution of the general assembly of 1893.

"In the matter of the occupation of the right of way in Fulton county by the Georgia Pacific Railway Company, reference was made to the pending bill in the legislature, asking that the Georgia Pacific be restrained from the right of way of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company. This bill for injunction did not seek to adjudicate the respective rights of the parties, but rather to prevent the operation of the Georgia Pacific Railroad Company from the right of way of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company. It was held that the Georgia Pacific Railroad Company was not entitled to the right of way of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company, and that the Georgia Pacific Railroad Company was not entitled to the right of way of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company.

Mr. Veach's Claims.

"In the matter of occupation of land belonging to the state in the city of Atlanta, known as Wall street, I have to report that communications to the mayor and council on this subject have been referred to a special committee, that the committee has referred the preliminary questions of ownership to the legal department of the city, and we have had an interview with the gentleman representing the city and particularly discussed these matters. It is expected that in a very short time a proposition for settlement will be submitted to your excellency.

"In the matter of the claim of the Hon. J. M. Veach at Adairville, I have to report the following state of facts:

"In 1861 the state purchased from Elisha King seven and three-fourths acres of land of what is now the outskirts of Adairville, paying therefor $10. It was understood that this land was to be used for railroad purposes. However, it was not so used, nor so far as I am informed was it ever taken in possession by the state of Georgia. A deed was made to the state three years ago, but no claim by the state was ever enforced against this property. In entering on the duties of the position of special attorney for the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company, I found this land had been granted by him for railroad purposes, and had not been used by the state for any purpose, assumed possession, and sold it to Mr. Veach, who, in good faith, paid him for it and went into possession, and has occupied the same ever since. The records in the clerk's office were destroyed during the war, and hence Mr. Veach could make no examination of the title. We have called his attention to the matter of this claim the state, and have had an interview with him in relation to the same. After investigation he has offered to pay the state the sum of $500 cash for a relinquishment of its rights under the deed made to it by Elisha King, which proposition we submit for your consideration. Inasmuch as the state was never in possession of this land, and has for more than thirty years paid no attention to it, made no claim for it, it is my opinion that the offer of Mr. Veach should be accepted as fair and equitable. The state will then get back the purchase money paid by Mr. Veach, and the matter will be closed.

"There are a number of other claims, and we have found it necessary to have been authorized by your excellency to employ one of the period of one month's time, at a salary of $50 per month. We are made arrangements with the chief engineer of the Western and Atlantic Railroad to furnish a competent civil engineer at this price for the purpose indicated. We prefer this course because of the familiarity with the location of the various properties of an engineer with the Western and Atlantic Railroad.

Mr. Wimbush and His Work.

"Several weeks since I made application to your excellency passed an order associating with me in this work Mr. W. A. Wimbush, and your excellency has been very satisfactory, and I find my engagements are such that I cannot further continue to discharge the duties of special attorney for the Western and Atlantic Railroad. There are so many matters of detail arising at different points that my performance of these duties since the 1st of January last has been at a sacrifice. All the matters are now progressing very satisfactorily, and the work is thus important work will be carried on successfully. Under these circumstances, I respectfully ask your excellency to relieve me from further representation of the state in this matter. I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant, W. A. LITTLE.

cellency will relieve me from further representation of the state in this matter. I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant, W. A. LITTLE.

HE FORGOT.

2—"But, alas!"

3—"He forgot to—"

4—"hollah."

The Good of Tobacco.

From The St. Louis Republic.

Professor Vincenzo Vassallo, of the University of Pisa, Italy, will not get an endorsement from the bureau of narcotics of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Following an old legend, he has demonstrated the value of tobacco for use in many diseases and as a preventative of many more.

In his experience the professor has endeavored to show the value of tobacco in surroundings as nearly resembling the conditions that exist in the human mouth as possible. He has taken highly cultivated germs and placed them in a tube, on saturated cotton. Tobacco smoke blown through the tube was found to kill the germs outright or render them less liable to grow. Professor Tassinari killed the bacilli of typhus, pleuro-pneumonia, cholera and other diseases of that character. He will next turn his attention to experiments with the germ of tuberculosis. If the germs of disease can be killed under circumstances that are so favorable to the growth of the germ—perfect cultivation and the absence of the natural good qualities, but this is the best support that it has had from men of science.

THE JUDGE'S STORY.

A Very Exciting Incident of Post-Bellum Days.

BROUGHT UP BY A BAND OF GOLD.

How a Georgia Colony Lived in Spanish Honduras—A Spanish Grandee and His Bloody Thrust.

A small band of gold, somewhat battered with much wearing and bent in just a little to fit the finger—Judge Perkinson's little finger. No one would give it more than ordinary notice, but the ring has a history and it serves as a reminder to one of the most exciting incidents of post bellum days.

Just after the war, when the soldier boys came home to find death and destruction in the wake of that memorable march to the sea, and when the period of reconstruction was beginning to shape itself, a number of southern men, moved by the sad results of the war and believing that the new conditions would be unfavorable to their line of life, determined to leave the south and take refuge in other climes.

Associations of different kinds were formed, and almost every state in the south sent a colony out to some part of Mexico, Central or South America.

Grants of land were given by the different governments and it was the intention of the men thus expatriating themselves to establish model republics and operate things on Arcadian principles.

In Atlanta a colony was organized, made up of about one hundred men, good and true, including recruits from other sections of the state and a few from Alabama.

A large tract of uncultivated land was put at their disposal by the authorities of Spanish Honduras, with the privilege of pre-emption so long as the colonists continued to make improvements upon it. It was for this place they headed, prepared to establish a republic of their own. The trip was made from Atlanta to New Orleans, thence by vessel to Omoao.

This place was about thirty miles from where they intended to settle. Here they formed in true Spanish style and made it across the country in wagons to their tract of land. In due time they arrived, pitched their tents and settled down. For two years they remained, but the growing heat of that tropical region was too intense, and one by one they drifted back to their native land.

A few stayed on there, and now and then came the news of the successful venture of one of those who stayed behind. With the colony which formed here was Judge A. H. Perkinson, and the story of his life and experience during the trip and the life of the Georgia people down there are full of interesting features and dramatic details.

Possibly the most thrilling event was that which put the judge in possession of that gold ring.

A Strange Story.

The course of incidents by which the judge holds the ring make a strange story. Upon their way to the tract of land which they were to occupy, while making it across the country in wagons, the colony stopped one day at San Marcos.

A picturesque little place it was, there among the mountains, high on a lofty plain and surrounded by a dense growth of the country miles around. Just outside the little town was one of the largest ranches in that part of the country.

It was owned by a Spaniard. He was a kind of prandee and boasted that right royal blood coursed through his dark complexion.

He received the way-worn travelers with open hospitality and for three days the fatness of that fair domain was theirs.

The Spaniard has a smattering knowledge of English, which had caught from his brother, who at that time was operating a line of steamships somewhere in those regions. The Georgians made a good impression upon his highness, and a few of the crowd spent several weeks with him.

In the course of events, however, all of them reached their allotted land and for six months they labored there, getting the ground in shape for cultivation and building their homes.

J. C. & I. DANIEL,

32 WHITEHALL STREET.

We have swept our salesrooms clean, and have sold all Shoes damaged by the late fire.

There was considerable stock of Gents', Ladies' and Misses' Shoes and Slippers that were not damaged at all. These we will put on the market tomorrow morning and sell for just what they will bring. Our store has been remodeled, and we are now prepared to promptly wait on all customers. This is a special sale to clear out old stock, which must be done at once.

This sale will not continue very many days, because the cut in prices is so very great that our entire stock will go at a rapid rate.

Come right now and get your pick.

J. C. & I. DANIEL,

32 Whitehall Street.

IN THE RANKS

General Evans Will Be Found Doing
Valiant Battle for Democracy.

STRONG AND MANLY LETTER

In Which He Announces His Withdrawal from the Contest.

HELL BE AT THE COMMITTEE'S CALL

and Will Do All in His Power to Aid the Nominee He Considers Harmonious in Strong Words.

General Evans has withdrawn from the electoral race.

In a strong, splendid letter he announces that from now on he will be found in the ranks, continuing as heretofore, his active service for the party, for the state, and for the country. Sincerely does he thank his friends who have given him such loyal support; wisely does he counsel his brother Democrats to harmony; and with the earnestness characteristic of the man he has rendered his services without reserve to the state executive committee and to the future campaign committee to be freely used in support of the party and its nominees.

It is just such a letter as his friends would write and by it he has shown to his hosts of friends and admirers throughout the state.

The letter speaks eloquently for itself.

General Evans' Letter.

Atlanta, Ga., June 23.—To the Democratic Party in Georgia: This will announce to you that I now resume my place in the ranks, to continue as heretofore my active service for the party, state and country. The same considerations of party unity which prompted my candidacy at first now induce me to withdraw, for I would not press my personal preference so as to imperil the success of my party.

With great gratification I observe the popular majorities which have spoken on my behalf, and I desire to declare my gratitude to all those who have thus unselfishly and earnestly supported my cause. During the public discussions in all parts of the state for the past three months I have endeavored to speak worthily of the principles which I maintain without provoking discord among our people, or tarnish the honor of our party, and now that the contest for the nomination is ended, I tender my services without reserve to the state executive committee, and to the future campaign committee to be freely used in support of the party and its nominees.

In this withdrawal of my aspirations to the highest office in your gift I take with me the satisfaction of having borne myself as a true democrat and as a faithful son of my native state, nor has the misrepresentation of my sentiments and acts by the press, or the misstatements of the campaign committee, and to the future campaign committee to be freely used in support of the party and its nominees.

My views, as published in September, 1893, urged earnestly the maintenance of our state and national democratic unity upon the basis of the Chicago platform. I held then that differences of opinions among Democrats should not cause personal and bitter criticisms of those of our leaders upon whom had been imposed the responsibilities of office, nor produce factional divisions in democratic ranks. In all my speeches made since that time I have consistently held to that same conclusion. Referring to my interview of 1893, I beg leave to repeat its advice in regard to the unwisdom of assailing the entire democratic congress and the national administration for those fault finding terms of impatient dissent which may be expected of the foes of democracy, but cannot with propriety be employed by its loyal friends. What error may be the dissatisfaction with the course of events since the party came into power, it is certainly true that, taken as a whole, the national administration is democratic and our Georgia congressmen are true democrats. We can, therefore, have the task of condemnation to the foes of the party, and, laying aside personal enmities, as well as active antagonisms, we can and must agree with each other on our platform of principles and a loyal support of the leaders of our party.

We can confide "In the integrity of purpose on the part of the national administration that all those great principles of liberal relief and civil reform clearly set forth in the Chicago platform and pivoted upon in our system of customs house legislation should have force and effect in the laws to be enacted by congress and in the conduct of every department of government." Such is the language of a vote of confidence, recently given by a county democratic meeting, that every democrat may read.

Open our fidelity to our principles, our devotion to our country, and our loyalty to our leaders. The success of our party depends upon the sincere and united support of all our friends. Let us give our attention upon the same grounds, believing that we will have a victory, both state and national, I am, at your service, CLEMENT A. EVANS.

HIS WOUND KILLED HIM.

Anderson Died at Waco, Tex., Yesterday Morning.

His death was the result of an accidental wound in the leg, which he received last Monday. His brother, City Attorney James Anderson, of Atlanta, was at his bedside when he died.

Mr. Anderson's death will be sad news to many Atlantians who knew the impulsive fellow during the many years that he lived in Atlanta. He was known to citizens of every class and made friends wherever he went.

He came to Atlanta from Alabama, and was elected a member of the Atlanta police force. He made a good officer, and was very popular. He was always ready and delighted to go to the aid of his fellow citizens.

His career as an Atlanta policeman was a very successful one. He was known for his courage, and he never failed to defend himself manfully.

Mr. Anderson, Waco, Tex., about four years ago, was shot by a man named John Smith. He was hit in the leg, and the wound was very serious. He was taken to a hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

He was a very brave man, and he was a very good officer. He was a very popular man, and he was a very good friend to his fellow citizens. He was a very good man, and he was a very good officer.

wound was an exceedingly dangerous one. The physicians advised that the injured limb be amputated, but Anderson had strong hopes of pulling through and would not consent to the operation.

His refusal to consent to the amputation probably cost him his life. The wound was aggravated by the delay, and had to be amputated Thursday. He died yesterday.

A letter from City Clerk W. C. Cooper, of Waco, to relatives of Mr. Anderson in this city, expresses the deepest regret at the unfortunate occurrence, and says: "The entire city authorities esteemed him as an efficient and valuable officer, and he will receive all the care that can be given him."

JUDGE CLARK'S TRIBUTE.

He Writes of General Philip Cook, Their Long Friendship.

So much has been written and published of General Cook since his death, and much of it so well said and expressed, I do not consider there is any margin for other or further eulogy.

This tribute is, therefore, not made to exalt his life and character, more than has already been done, but simply to contribute to the knowledge of his place in the history of the state and country. His long friendship, his generous and noble character, his services without reserve to the state executive committee and to the future campaign committee to be freely used in support of the party and its nominees.

It will be perceived that General Cook's ancestors first settled in Virginia and from thence some of them moved farther south, notably to South Carolina and Georgia. In every family of every generation where there were sons, there was a Philip. In many of the counties of Virginia and Georgia the marble erected in memory of the dead will be found the name of Philip Cook. By intermarriage, the name will be found among other names, evidently branches of the same family tree. Philip Pendleton Cook, author of that beautiful little poem, "Florence Vane," is one, and John Estlin Cook, the novelist, is another. General Cook's father came to Georgia from Fairfield district, South Carolina, and while a resident of that district a grand uncle of mine married a sister of his, and a son of that marriage married an aunt of General Evans—so that there is no relationship between either of us, we have the same mutual kin. When I first formed the acquaintance of General Cook I did not know this, and never ascertained it until many years after our friendship was formed.

I first met him at Americus, Ga., during a session of our supreme court in that city, in July, 1881. I have a vivid remembrance—even the same impression now I had then—of the kind of man he was. Up to that time, I had never met a man—and do not think since—who so won me by his direct and even casual acquaintance. I felt he had taken me into his confidence at once. His conversation was so frank and hearty and so void of all concealment. It was so replete with good sense and good humor, happily blended. The magnetism of the man was felt by every one who came in contact with him, and he was a living and literal illustration of the saying of Shakespeare, "so hid away in Troilus and Cressida," "that one touch of nature makes the whole world kin." General Cook must have made the same impression upon every one susceptible of an impression. After that, we met often, and practiced law at the same courts. For as much as ten years we met regularly at Doody superior court. His vivacity gave spice to everything he touched, from the dull routine of court during the day to the social time the lawyers had at night. He excelled most in conversation, especially from the humorous turn he gave to many subjects.

His career in congress produced a similar impression. He became a member soon after reconstruction, and remained so for ten years. It may be safely asserted that no member of congress was personally as popular with all the other members—even the most violent radicals loved or admired him. He was a man of great personal magnetism, although he told them that they were acting. When defeated in the nomination for congress, it did not destroy or shake his equanimity. He took it uncomplainingly and good humoredly, as he did every reverse. This was crowning proof that he was a philosopher. He had many reverses, but none of them failed to daunt him. Many times had he been severely, almost fatally wounded in battle. Worse than all, he had to stand the loss of the cause, for the sake of which he had so bravely fought and bled so severely wounded.

Emerging from all this, and yet able to perform all the duties of life, and while enjoying a serene and happy temper, the effects of a strong constitution and the conscientious discharge of duty in every emergency, he came very near losing his life by an accident. But his strong constitution, his strong will and his happy temperament enabled him to recover. No matter how much he suffered, or how imminent the peril, he would always receive his reverses with a smile. Next to his courage and the philosophy with which he met the reverses and used the victories of life, was his almost perfect self-reliance. This latter was illustrated in his devotion to his wife while living, and his reverence for her memory when dead.

The first quality was the cause of his death, for the feeling that he was able to meet and overcome all dangers and difficulties caused him, in the discharge of duty, to so expose himself to the most inclement weather that he died from its effects. That which bullets and bayonets and other casualties had failed to do, was accomplished by a natural cause and at a time so sad to say, while he "was crowning an age of labor with a life of ease." His life will always be a subject of interest to those who knew him, and by tradition he will pass down to posterity, and the coming and later generations will contemplate him with delight. RICHARD H. CLARK.

WILL BE TRIED.

The Members of the Athletic Club to Be Arraigned.

The parties arrested on the charge of gambling in the rooms of the athletic club on Decatur street, recently, will be tried before the criminal court of the city the first Monday in July.

Charges have been preferred against eleven persons. Two of these will be required to answer to two accusations—keeping a gambling house and gaming.

These cases were not prosecuted in police court, and it was understood that no prosecutions would occur before the city court.

This, however, seems to be a mistake. It happens that the officers are depending on other sources than the party who first figured as a witness, for evidence on which to sustain their cases. This is the information that comes from an attaché of the city court.

AN IMPORTANT EXPOSITION WEEK.

The Good News from Louisiana and What It Means.

THE PLAN OF THE EXPOSITION.

The Broad and Magnificent Plan of Mr.
Grant Wilkins Which Has Been Adopted—A Map.

The past week has been a highly important one in exposition circles.

The very favorable reports which come from Washington have a tendency to emphasize everybody connected with the exposition work and there is every reason to hope for the government exhibit, which, when obtained, will insure the international character of the exposition. Mr. Jack something like fourteen acres, and the drive around it will be over a mile and a quarter. This, under Mr. Wilkins' plans is to be bridged in two places, and, at different points, indicated on the accompanying map, there are landings, the bridges being built so as to permit electric or steam launches and boats of other kinds to pass under them.

From every point on the grounds this lake can be seen. The buildings are located with reference to it, and, as will be seen, the building sites, marked on the map by letters, have been so arranged as not to obstruct the view of this magnificent body of water. Mr. Wilkins has given his lake a name which not only sounds well, but means something.

It will be noticed that the grounds inside of the present race track are used simply for decoration. It is expected that this will be made one of the most attractive places on the grounds, the track itself being a drive from which everything within the grounds can be seen. On the high ground beyond the clubhouse is a site large enough to accommodate the present government building at Chicago, should it be deemed wise to bring it here. The Midway pleasure feature is to be near Piedmont avenue, about at the Bowden street entrance. The high ground which is next to Blackley avenue furnishes a number

A site for government building; B, site for building 43x300; C, electricity building; D, women's building; E, press building; G, fisheries building; H, live stock; I, J and K, building sites; L, agricultural building; M, building site, 300x180; N, fire department; O, administration building; P, machinery building; Q, passenger station; R, store and room. The entrances are indicated by the small letters, a, b, c, d, e.

Spalding, who is one of the most enthusiastic members of the board of directors and who is also attorney for the company, has been in Washington for several days and has made a very careful study of the situation at the national capital. He writes that he finds great interest in the enterprise and he believes that there will be little difficulty in so presenting it to the members of the senate and the house as to secure favorable consideration. The Georgia senators and representatives are, he says, working enthusiastically for the exposition and he finds that among southern gentlemen generally the feeling is the friendliest possible.

And Louisiana's Action.

The action of the Louisiana legislature in giving not only its formal endorsement, but in ordering by unanimous vote that the state make an exhibit at the exposition, was one very important step towards the success of the exposition. Louisiana's action will doubtless be followed up by similar action on the part of other southern states, and many, if not all of them, will make distinct and separate exhibits, and most of them perhaps will erect their own state buildings. From the first the business interests of New Orleans and Louisiana have seemed to grasp the scope of the exposition and have all the time been thoroughly in sympathy with it. While they are first, however, the other states of the south will not be far behind and the exposition to be held in Atlanta will doubtless truly and thoroughly represent the south and the success of a representative southern exposition is absolutely assured.

Mr. Wilkins' Plans Approved.

Locally the most important action was that of the executive committee in approving the plans submitted by Chairman Wilkins for the improvement of the exposition grounds.

The study of these plans, for which, by the way, Mr. Wilkins deserves full credit is most interesting. He seems to have found the way of all ways by which the grounds can be utilized to the best advantage. In his explanation to the members of the executive committee Mr. Wilkins went fully into the possibilities of the grounds and showed that in making his plans he had in view three things: First, the improvement of the grounds for the exposition purposes—and he certainly seems to have found the right way to do that; second, the preservation of the property for park purposes after the exposition is ended; and third, the use of the grounds after the exposition for residence purposes should the owners of the property desire to dispose of it in that way.

It has been expected for some days that he would make a formal announcement of his candidacy in a card to the public. Many expected that that card would be published today, but Mr. Gress has determined upon a different course.

Mr. Gress takes his own view of the situation. He is not unwilling to be a candidate for the office, but he is unwilling to Jane Gates, the semi-demented colored woman whose pistol put a ball in Harry Hardy Friday afternoon, was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Justice Landrum.

He decided that her guilt was well established and placed her bond at $500. Aaron Gates, her brother-in-law, came up before Judge Calhoun and was fined for being drunk and disorderly. The evidence in both cases showed an unusual state of affairs with the Gates family and there appears to be a wild streak of contagious insanity among the whole crowd.

Jane Gates lives at 464 Davis street. For some time her sanity has been on the wane, but the climax came Friday morning, when she went into the adjoining yard where her sister lives, flourishing a pistol and swearing to kill the first person she met. She gave her sister a hot chase about the yard, but Martha leaped quickly over the fence and escaped.

Jane then turned her attention to Harry Hardy, who was trimming the trees about the premises. At the time Harry was perched airy on a tall limb sawing busily away, totally unaware of the impending danger.

The woman concealed herself behind another tree and fired three shots in quick succession, bringing Hardy down from his lofty perch at the last shot. Besides the wound of the ball, which had penetrated his thigh, the man received severe injury from the fall. Jane was locked up on the charge of assault with intent to murder.

In the afternoon Aaron Gates came home and heard from his wife that Jane had chased her with a pistol with the intention of killing her. He swore revenge on his brother and his family. Arming himself with a butcher knife, he sought his brother and was in the act of carving him up when some one interfered. Yesterday afternoon the little daughter of Jane Gates testified that she thought that the whole family was crazy.

"My uncle went crazy," she said, "and then he cut up so that he lost her mind, and then he got to acting sort of strange like." In default of bond yesterday Jane Gates was placed in jail.

SHOT AT THE BOYS.

Watchman Jones Saves Himself from a Footnote—Father Indignant.

Frank McFarlin and Jim Arnold, who live near the limit of Marietta street, were fired before the recorder yesterday afternoon and fined for jumping off a train while in motion.

Both are small boys and in stealing a ride upon a switch engine of the Western and Atlantic railroad were discovered by Watchman Jones.

As they jumped from the engine the watchman fired three shots, at which they stopped and were arrested. In speaking of the affair yesterday afternoon, Mr. J. B. McFarlin, father of one of the boys, spoke very indignantly concerning the shooting and said that his boy had done nothing to deserve such severe treatment. He will probably have a charge entered against Jones.

WITH CRUDE OPIUM.

Mr. Charley Pemberton Takes the Drug and Becomes Unconscious.

HE WAS THOUGHT TO BE DEAD.

Saved Only by the Position of His Room and the Vigilance of Mr. Motte's Porter.
How He Was Found.

In a little room up on the third floor of the old station house, now the Oriole restaurant, Mr. Charley Pemberton was found late yesterday afternoon in an unconscious condition. Near by on a chair was a stick of crude opium.

Whether the opium was taken with suicidal intent is not known, but for three hours Pemberton was walked, rubbed, beaten, and dosed. Last night he was carried to the Grady hospital in the ambulance, and only strenuous work revived his dazed condition.

Monday Mr. Pemberton applied to Mr. Z. V. Ennis, proprietor of the Oriole restaurant, and asked that a room be assigned him. He was given the rear corner room on the third floor just opposite the roof upon which Photographer C. W. Motte puts his rats out to catch the sun's rays.

If it had not been for this situation of his sleeping apartment, Mr. Pemberton would not be in such a healthful condition today. While collecting some of the plates on the roof yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Mr. Motte's porter noticed the form of a man stretched out in a peculiar position on the bed which was in the little corner room of the Oriole. At first he gave the matter no attention, thinking that the man was asleep, but returning several hours later he saw that the man had not changed his position.

Mr. Motte was notified and his observation of the bed and its occupant assured him by his bed there was wrong. He determined to investigate. Sergeant Jennings was passing down Whitehall at the time and to him was made known the suspicion. He went at once to the Oriole and informed Mr. Ennis. Together they ran upstairs. The door of Pemberton's room was locked. Knocking and calling had no effect upon the man on the bed, who they had recognized over the transom as Charley Pemberton. Finally Mr. Ennis squeezed himself through the transom and opened the door to the sergeant from the inside. Pemberton was lying on his back, stretched out at full length on the bed. At first glance they thought that he was dead, but after turning him over signs of life were visible. Dr. White was hastily summoned and gave a strong antidote as soon as he arrived. In several hours, by strong work, Mr. Pemberton was brought around.

At 8 o'clock last night he was transferred to the Grady hospital and was pronounced out of danger.

Except for the stick of opium which was found by his bed there was no clue to the condition of the young man. It is thought that he has been sick some time and took the opium to alleviate the suffering.

Mr. Charley Pemberton is the son of Dr. H. B. Pemberton, one of the most noted physicians Atlanta has ever had. He was the discoverer of the famous Coco-Cola and left his son in full charge of the patent when he died.
